TRAIN WRECK KILLS TWO, 28 HURT

FAST EXPRESS HITS DERAILED FREIGHT CARS NEAR ALTOONA

Trainmen Victims Of Crash; Scalded To Death In Cab

ALTOONA, Pa., April 18.—Wrecking crews today were rushed to Spruce Block Station, twenty-two miles east of here, scene of a spectacular crash last night in which two members of the crew of the Pennsylvania Express, New York to St. Louis flyer of the Pennsylvania railroad, were killed and twenty-eight passengers reported injured, one seriously.

The express, traveling at a fast rate of speed, ploughed into derailed freight cars at the block station. W. J. Keane, engineer of the passenger train, and his fireman, R. E. Look, were scalded to death in the engine cab by escaping steam.

J. J. Eckelcamp, of Huntingdon, Pa., a railroad employee, was the most seriously injured. He was riding in the first coach and suffered injuries to his spine when the coach left the rails.

The dispatcher's office here announced this morning that all of the injured had been treated at the scene and continued to their destinations.

All injured passengers were riding in the combination car and front seats of the first coach. A special train carrying doctors and nurses was made up in the Pennsylvania yards here and rushed to the scene. The hospital train returned here this morning, bearing the injured.

Responsibility for the crash was not immediately fixed. First reports were that the crew of the freight train, nine cars of which had been derailed, did not have time to dispatch a rear end flagman to warn the approaching express.

The terrific impact as the express ploughed into the derailed freight cars sent the engine, tender and combination coach and baggage car and the first coach of the Pennsylvania Express careening from the rails.

The tender and combination coach overturned, but the first coach remained upright although derailed. Most of the injured, according to first reports, suffered from shock.

BAKER APPARENTLY ELIMINATES SELF AS NEW CANDIDATE

Former Secretary Of War Will Not Seek Presidency

CLEVELAND, April 18.—Friends of Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, today studied the import of a statement of W. B. Gower, Cuyahoga County Democratic leader, which was interpreted to be the stand the wartime secretary will take during the coming Democratic national convention and on the party nomination for the presidency.

The statement, which proved disappointing to members of the county group, indicated that he would not seek the nomination and would not use his influence in behalf of any particular candidate. The statement, issued after a conference of Gower with Baker, read:

"The many kind things said about Newton D. Baker as a possible candidate for the presidency are certainly gratifying to Mr. Baker's friends and, naturally to him. In my conversations with Mr. Baker, he has shown very great interest in the party's platform, but no interest in possible candidates, and I do not believe he has changed his former judgment on the subject. This has always been that he felt he had no desire for further political preferment of any kind."

FOREST FIRES ARE NOW UNDER CONTROL

NEW YORK, April 18.—Forest fires which laid waste to thousands of acres in New Jersey and New York apparently were under control today after one life had been lost and several families saved from homes in the path of flames.

More than 230 fires were reported in New York in a week. Stanley Kowkowski, a farmer, was burned to death fighting a fire in Mercer County, New Jersey.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink will appear with the Metropolitan Opera Co. next season, according to an announcement today. She will celebrate her seventieth birthday in June.

TESTS COLLEGE AUTHORITY

Girl Dismissed For Failure To Pass Subjects
Would Enjoin Miami University

HAMILTON, O., April 18.—Long-recognized rights of state universities to dismiss students with low grades were threatened with complete collapse here today in the suit of Jean West, Portsmouth freshman, to enjoin Miami University trustees from excluding her from the teachers college. "Junking" of old, established privileges of state-owned schools will result if she wins the suit brought by her father, William West, Portsmouth city plumbing inspector, in her behalf, university officials said.

"Should this injunction be sustained disciplinary rules of our state universities all over the country will be discarded," Dr. Alfred Upham, president of the university, declared.

Miss West's father was quoted as saying that "it is time someone has challenged the theory that the right to attend our public state colleges is an exclusive privilege."

His daughter qualified to enter the Teachers College at Miami but failed in one subject the first semester. Readmitted for the second semester, she failed a mid-semester examination and was dismissed.

"She paid her tuition and dormitory fee and we believe it is unreasonable and unlawful that she should not be able to demonstrate her ability to the end of the semester," her father said.

Hearing on the suit for an injunction was scheduled for Monday before Judge J. D. Barnes of Sidney in Butler County common pleas court common pleas court here.

RADIO CORPORATION APPEALS FROM PATENT LICENSE VERDICT

WASHINGTON, April 18.—The Radio Corporation of America asked the supreme court today to reverse lower court decisions which, it asserted, threatened forfeiture of patent licenses covering its world-wide system of radio communication.

Millions of dollars to the corporation and a far-reaching interpretation of the Clayton anti-trust law as applied to monopolies built up on patents, are involved.

The precise question at issue is the corporation's requirement that an independent radio manufacturer licensed to use its patents, must use the corporation's tubes in their sets.

The decision of District Judge Morris of Delaware and the third circuit court is to the effect that such a requirement amounts to a contract for sale of goods on condition the petitioner should not use goods of a competitor, and therefore lessens competition.

The suit originally was begun by the De Forest Radio Co., and supported by independent tube manufacturers. Involved with the Radio Corporation are the General Electric, American Telephone and Telegraph, and the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co.

Under lower court decisions, the independent manufacturers would be able to use their licenses for patents of the Radio Corporation for radio sets and manufacture tubes themselves, or obtain them from others.

The corporation's brief to the high court said seventeen different manufacturers have already accepted the decision of the lower court to institute suits for treble damages under the Clayton act. The total damages claimed amount to $4,350,000.

The petition, signed by John W. Davis, of New York, the Democratic presidential nominee in 1924, and other attorneys, said "the decision below, if affirmed, will constitute an adjudication of violation of the anti-trust laws of such a character as to warrant or require the forfeiture of all the licenses covering the Radio Corporation's world-wide system of radio communication."

GANG SLAYING REPRISAL FOR JOE, THE BOSS

Racketeer Slain In Front Of Officer's
Residence

NEW YORK, April 18.—While the body of Giuseppe Masseria, Joe, the Boss—rested in a $15,000 casket piled high with flowers, police today investigated a murder they said was the first of reprisals they feared in connection with the killing of the racketeer in a Coney Island cafe on Wednesday.

A gangster and racketeer known as Ernest Rossi, alias "Hoppy," was shot and killed last night as he sat at the wheel of an automobile in front of the home of Police Captain Lewis J. Valentine, Brooklyn.

Rossi, who was about 30 years old, was known as a follower of Frankie Yale, the slain gang leader and as a friend and associate of Al Capone before the Capone trial for Chicago. He had a long police record, authorities said.

Several persons saw the automobile stop before the Valentine home. Three shots were heard and two men leaped from the rear seat and ran away.

The victim was found slumped over the steering wheel with two bullet wounds in the back and one in his neck. He had been instantly killed. Police said they believed Rossi had been forced with pistols at his back to drive to the Valentine home and was then shot.

Police said Valentine knew the killers of the murder and the killers merely chanced to stop in front of his home to put Rossi "on the spot."

CHICAGO THUGS KILL GAMBLER

CHICAGO, April 18.—A gang of six thugs, operating in two cars, shot and perhaps mortally wounded George Turner, wealthy west side gambler, early today.

A Negro garage attendant who was riding with Turner in the latter's car was slightly wounded in the attack which occurred near Turner's home.

Police viewed the shooting as a renewal of gambling wars.

LONDON, April 18.—General Damaso Berenguer, former Spanish premier and military dictator, today according to messages from Madrid.

THREE YOUTHS DROWN IN POOL

Brothers Victims Of Undercurrent

STEBUNVILLE, O., April 18.—Strong undercurrent in a fifteen-foot pool in which they were thrown when their rowboat was swept over a dike, today had caused the drowning of three brothers in Black Channel, near here.

The victims were Theodore, 17, George, 14, and Samuel, 11, sons of Nick Gickis, Stebunville mill worker, and they were rowing from Brown's island, where they had been operating a truck farm for their father.

A whirlpool in the channel swept their boat against the dike and finally over it into the pool. The strong undercurrent in the pool blocked their efforts to swim ashore.

Thomas Proctor, line foreman for the Stream Line Traction Co., called help when he saw the boys struggling against the current. The bodies were recovered seventy feet below the dike and thirty feet from shore.

EXPLOSION OF BOMB DELAYS OPENING

CHICAGO, April 18.—"Mrs. Packard's Restaurant" was not to open today, as scheduled, because a bomb exploded early today just as everything was ready for the opening.

Police blame the bombing of the cafe, owned by Mrs. Ora Packard, to business rivalry.

The explosion threw Jack Frey out of his bed on the second floor.

CAVE-IN KILLS FOUR

HONOLULU, April 18.—Four Japanese laborers were dead here today and four others suffering from serious injuries as a result of a cave-in at the shaft of a tunnel at the Wahiawa dam near here. Ten other workmen escaped uninjured.

GIANT RUBBER MERGERS SAID TO BE RUMORED

Goodyear And U. S. Are Reported Forming
Consolidation

AKRON, O., April 18.—Two gigantic rubber company mergers were rumored unofficially in financial circles here today.

One of the reports said that Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. will merge with United States Rubber Co., forming the world's largest rubber corporation which would have factories in all parts of the world and an annual sales volume of $500,000,000.

Besides numerous rubber plantations and cotton fabric mills, the merged company would own the largest Zeppelin factory and hangar in the world.

Paul W. Litchfield, president of Goodyear, was out of the city today and no confirmation nor denial of the rumors could be obtained. He was reported to be in the east conferring with U. S. Rubber Co. officials.

A report that Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier, was one of the chief proponents of the Goodyear-U. S. merger, lacked confirmation. It was reported that Continental Shares Incorporated, an investment concern controlled by Eaton, was heavily interested in the Goodyear company.

The recent sweeping wage cut at the Goodyear plant was said to have been one of the preliminary steps in the expected merger of the giant concerns.

The other rumor was to the effect that B. F. Goodrich Co. is planning to obtain stock control of the General Tire and Rubber Co., one of the most consistently prosperous in this district. General recently announced its sixty-first consecutive stock dividend.

BURNED TO DEATH

COLUMBUS, O., April 18.—Seventeen-year-old Mary Eyster, a twin, was dead here today from burns received when a fire destroyed the home of her grandfather, Mrs. Margaret Eyster, 57, in Linden, a suburb. Frances Eyster, the girl's sister, was not at home when the fire broke out.

MANUFACTURER DIES

Troops Halt Rebel Plot In Basque Provinces

MADRID, April 18.—The new republican government of Spain was strengthened considerably today with formal recognition by France and a definite promise of adherence by Catalonia.

A Separatist movement was started in the Basque provinces, but the Madrid regime replied swiftly by dispatching two battalions of troops to Longrono, Vitoria, Burgos, Bilbao and Pamplona.

The minister of the interior, denying a report that governors of the various provinces were ordered to refrain from further church attendance, said they had been unofficially instructed to show the greatest courtesy toward priests. However, they were advised not to permit sermons of a political nature.

The most difficult problem was solved, however, when Francisco Macia, head of the Catalan republic, agreed to withdraw his demand for absolute autonomy for the Barcelona administration and accepted a measure of self government within the Spanish federation.

The Catalan cabinet at Barcelona issued a statement explaining it would draw up statutes for a relatively autonomous state, but not an independent one. The statutes will be submitted to the Catalan municipalities for approval and then to the national parliament, which will be elected in the near future.

According to President Alcalá Zamora, general elections for a national assembly empowered to rewrite the Spanish constitution will be held as soon as the government has disposed of the major problems now facing it.

Although the elections would formally decide whether the country remains a republic or reverts to a monarchy, there was little fear here that the people had any intention of balloting in favor of the throne.

The new regime is still confronted with problems of far-reaching importance, but has lost no time in seeking their solution. Perfection of its administrative machinery, coordinating the federal government with those of the various provinces, adjusting the relations of the church and state, reduction of the army and various other tasks have been begun.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, April 18.—The Republican government of Spain will probably be formally recognized by Brazil.

MISTAKE OF TYPIST SHORTENS PEN TERM

LIMA, O., April 18.—A stenographic error today was the cause for the reduction of a penitentiary sentence from two years to one.

Looking up the record of Anthony Weber, who sought mitigation of a two-year sentence given him last August on a manslaughter charge after Monyeen Stevely was killed by his auto, Judge W. T. Copeland found that the penalty was officially listed for only one year.

Due to Weber's ill health, the reason given for the request for mitigation, Judge Copeland said he would stand by the incorrect record and the stenographic error made by Miss Clara Ganthier in his office.

THREE KILLED, FOURTH INJURED AT CROSSING

ERIE, Pa., April 18.—Two women and a man were killed and another woman was injured today when the automobile in which they were riding crashed into a Pennsylvania and Lake Erie locomotive at a grade crossing here.

The dead: Mrs. May S. Johnson, 32, daughter of Mrs. Noal, driver of the car, suffered shock and body bruises and body injuries.

WILL QUIZ SISTERS REGARDING DOUBLE MURDER LAST MONTH

Believe One May Be
Wife Of Victim;
Suspect Sought

BOWLING GREEN, O., April 18.—Two sisters held here after a running gun fight in which William "Billy the Killer" Miller, alleged bandit, was slain by police, were to be questioned today about the murder of a Kansas City man, believed to have been the husband of one of the girls.

Missouri officials notified local authorities to interrogate one of the girls, who gave her name here as Rose Baird, 20, of Kansas City, regarding the murder in Wyandotte County, Kansas, last March 25, of Wallace and William Ash. They believe the girl may be the wife of Wallace Ash.

Her sister, Ruth Baird, 20, also of Kansas City, is in a hospital here suffering from a bullet wound in the head, which physicians said may impair her mind.

The two girls were taken into custody when they were found in the company, police said, of Miller and Charles Arthur Floyd, also said to be from Kansas City. The two men were suspected bank bandits. Floyd escaped during the gun battle in which Miller was killed and the two girls were captured. Police are seeking him.

The quietest spent several days here "throwing money away," according to police.

TICKET BROKER DIES
NEW YORK, April 18.—Funeral services will be held here tomorrow for Joseph Leblang, who made a fortune estimated as high as $12,000,000 in the cut rate theater ticket business. A large part of his estate was left to charity, it was reported.

Americans Warned By
Stimson; Offers
Protection

COLON, Panama, April 18.—Carrying 100 United States Marines and 380 sailors, the U. S. S. Rochester steamed out of Balboa at 9 a. m. today for Bluefields, Nicaragua, thriving seacoast town menaced by bandit insurgents under General Augustino Sandino.

The Rochester, flagship of the special service squadron, is due at Bluefields tomorrow night.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 18.—Warlike activities in Nicaragua today assumed serious proportions as both insurgents and American protective forces maneuvered for battle.

Many Americans living in threatened inland sections fled to protected coastal points on warning from Secretary of State Stimson that the United States government could not give them general protection.

According to information gathered here, the most threatened district at present is the vicinity of Bluefields, where a single detachment of native guardsmen offered by U. S. Marines is entrenching itself against a concentrated attack by some 300 Nicaraguan rebels.

Advices said that Cape Gracias a Dios was looted by insurgents Wednesday, increasing the list of Americans killed in the guerrilla warfare up to now to a possible eighteen. Albert Pagot, Louisiana lumberman, and his family were reported missing after sacking of that town.

The rebels were reported in possession of Rama, thirty miles from Bluefields, and gathering force in that direction. "Alarming numbers" of insurgents were said to be drawing close to the plantations of the United Fruit Company at Bluefields.

REVELRY ENDS IN JAIL CELL

Restaurant Magnate's
Auto Injures Man

CHICAGO, April 18.—James P. Harding, son of the nationally known loop restaurateur here, was jailed today, while police investigated circumstances of the end of his night of revelry.

Harding, executive manager of his father's chain of restaurants, was charged with assault with an automobile and with driving while intoxicated. He ran down Theodore Switzer, 30, a motorman, whose right leg was badly crushed, according to Policeman James Minarik, who was aboard Switzer's street car. The motorman stepped off the car to fix the trolley when Harding's car crashed into him, Minarik said.

With Harding at the end of his whoopee trail was pretty Miss Elizabeth McClarn, 23, a young artist. Harding was arrested only after a fist fight with police.

INN PATRONS FLEE WHEN MAN KILLED

CHICAGO, April 18.—Thirty-five patrons of the Panama Inn, on the south side of the city, fled in terror today after John Boley, manager of the cafe, shot and killed James "Buster" Oliver, 45. The shooting occurred on the dance floor. Boley said he killed Oliver, a discharged doorman, after Oliver drew a revolver.

department, it will be achieved, it was learned today.

On behalf of Stimson it was emphasized at the state department that American lives and property will be protected under the new policy if the Americans in the danger areas obey instructions to seek haven in ports where war ships can afford asylum.

Orders to the commanders of the Memphis, Asheville and Sacramento, the three naval vessels already on the east coast of Nicaragua, and to the cruiser Rochester, now at Balboa, Canal Zone, enroute to the east coast, are:

"The offering of asylum, the use of all force in protection of life and property if the places you are guarding are attacked, but abstention of extending your operations into the interior and beyond the limits of the towns you are sent to guard."

This instruction was sent to the Rochester along with orders for her refueling at Balboa and "proceed with dispatch to Bluefields."

A study of the state department papers reveals there is ample precedent for Stimson's instructions sent to American Minister Hanna at Managua and to American Consul Rowe at Bluefields warning Americans in the interior either to leave Nicaragua or seek haven at the ports protected by American war ships.

These instructions added that Americans in Nicaragua need not expect American armed forces to pierce the interior to protect them, and that the government did not propose to undertake such a program.

Officials declared today that there is every reason to believe the native Nicaraguan national guard is approaching the efficiency on which American withdrawal next June is predicated.

It was stressed that the only interest this government has in the present crisis is at localities where there are Americans.

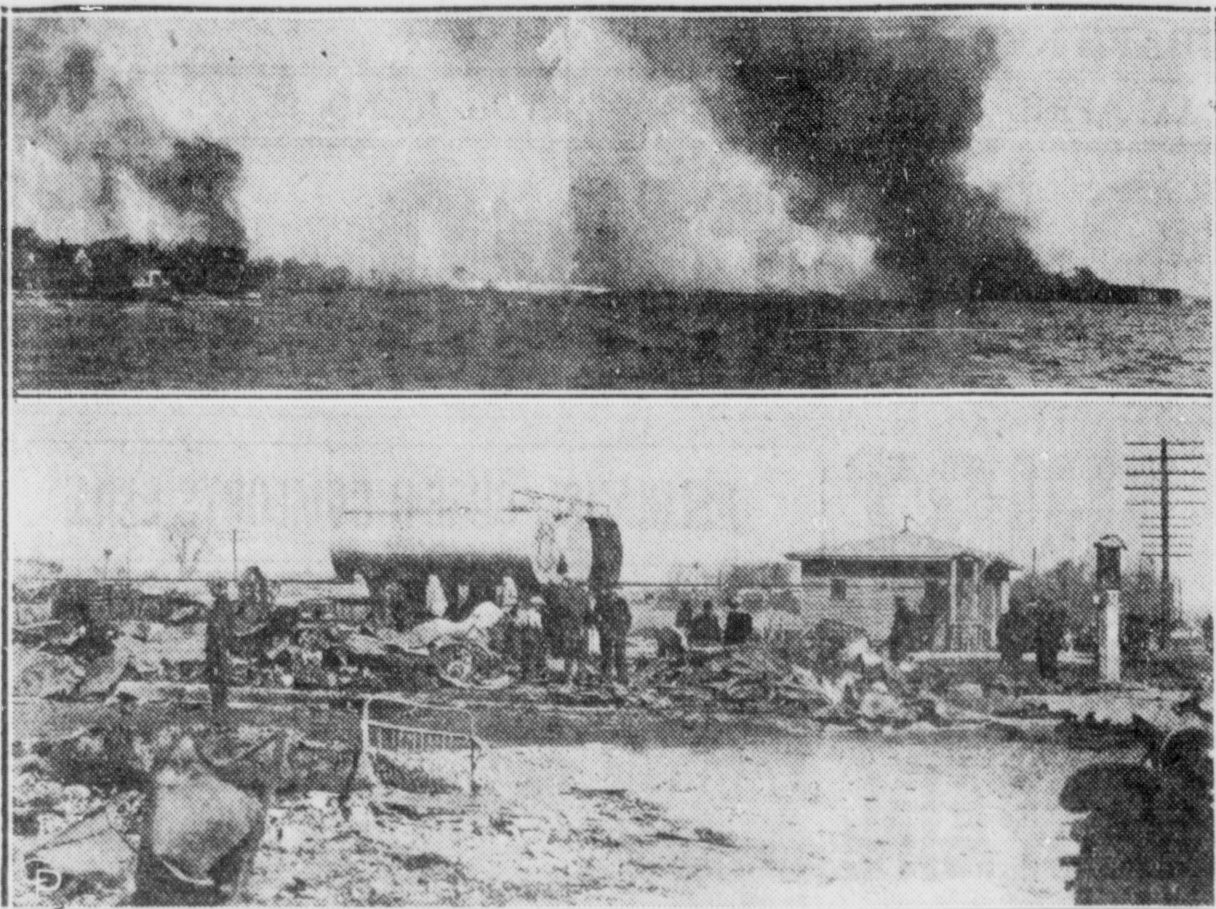

Back of the new policy instituted last February when Stimson announced the plan for gradual withdrawal of the marines, looms the purpose to get out of a situation in the Caribbean which more than anything else has served to alienate Latin American feeling.

Loss in trade with South America has been attributed largely to the previous policy in Central America.

W. B. BRYSON RITES

Funeral services for W. B. Bryson, prominent Greene Countyman, who died suddenly Friday morning, will be held at the Second United Presbyterian Church Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The Ivy Leaf Club of Zeta Chapter, Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, presented its annual program Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the auditorium of Galloway Hall. The program consisted of several musical selections rendered by the members of the group. An oration was delivered by Miss Beatrice Woodbridge, a freshman in the college of education.

Rev. S. S. Morris, Nashville, Tenn., secretary of the Christian Endeavor of the A. M. E. Church, delivered a lecture at the Wednesday evening convocation on "Will Crusade with Christ to Double My Life." Rev. Morris was a delegate to the World Christian Endeavor Convention held at Berlin, Germany, last August.

Chapel services on Wednesday morning have been interesting during the last two months. On last Wednesday Mr. Robert H. Johnson, instructor in the academy gave a violin selection which delighted his audience. He was accompanied by Miss Grace Edwards. The speaker of the occasion was Mr. Thomas P. Fraser of the department of biology. His subject was "Algae's Adventure in Science." Every one present enjoyed the address and expressed a desire to hear Mr. Fraser again in the near future.

The committee on intercollegiate of Wilberforce University has submitted an interesting series of meetings for the month of April. On the 19th a group of students and faculty members will spend the day at Earlham College, Richmond, Ind., in a fellowship gathering. The Wilberforce singers will furnish music for the occasion. Miss Grace Edwards will render a pipe organ solo.

There will be a group of students visit the university from the colleges in and near Cleveland in the interest of foreign relations. The following countries will be represented by students: Austria, Mexico, Bulgaria, Prussia, France, China, Scotland and Palestine. The informal reception will be in Arnett Hall from 2 to 4:30 p. m.

On the 20th a group of students and faculty members will go to Wilmington College for a day and will be accompanied by the quartette. Mr. George David and Miss Grace Woodson will lecture and conduct a round table discussion.

The local branch of the W. C. T. U. held an enthusiastic meeting last Monday evening at the home of Mrs. W. R. Welch with Mrs. Ada W. R. Welch, with Mrs. Ada Young acting as the hostess. After the devotional hour conducted by Mrs. Gertrude Holland the regular routine of business was followed after which a spic program was given. Mrs. Carlisle of Kokomo, Ind., who was one of the guests, responded with appropriate greetings and good wishes for the combined success of the organization.

Officers elected for the ensuing year follow: president, Mrs. Lizette Welch; vice-president, Mrs. Ethel Johnson; recording secretary, Mrs. Selma Lane; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Flora Holte; treasurer, Mrs. Althea Flota; evangelist, Mrs. Gertrude Holland; flower mission, Mrs. Rachel Jones; soldiers, Mrs. P. A. McGinnis and Flora Holte; health and morality, Mrs. Ada Young and Miss Rilda Phelps; essay contest, Mrs. Eliza Frazier; citizenship, Mrs. Edna Woodson. Since the fire destroyed the building where the musical department was housed it has been practically without a place to carry on the work. Through the efforts of the officers of the school the upper floor of the old Clark residence has been furnished and this floor will be the home for the time being.

DRAMATIC SCENE AS ELEVEN DIE IN TUNNEL

Photo at left shows a fireman being taken from tunnel underneath Chicago in which eleven men lost their lives and in which sixteen firemen and workers were miraculously saved after they had been thought dead. The tunnel is being built to connect two sewer lines. Acrid smoke which filled the tunnel, hiding the source of the fire, made rescue work extremely hazardous. At right, firemen with oxygen tanks are preparing to go to the rescue of the trapped men.

ing. The instructors, Mr. Charles Saulsbury and Miss Grace Edwards have solicited rugs, chairs, and other furniture necessary to make the rooms suitable for their work. They expect to start their classes in music Monday morning.

Mr. Charles Mason, who is employed by the Post Office Department to transport the mail to and from the station of the Pennsylvania railroad to the post office has been confined to his room for more than three weeks with grip, and Mr. Cromwell is looking after the work. Mr. Mason is much improved and his many friends will be glad to see his familiar face again.

Mrs. Charles Martin, who spent several days in Richmond, Va., visiting one of her old schoolmates, Mrs. Fannie Morton Drew, and also several days in Washington, D. C., has returned home.

Mr. Frank Transue took advantage of the excursion to Detroit last Saturday night and spent Sunday with his sister.

Miss Jane Lee of Springfield, a former instructor in the Normal Department, now in the school system of Lexington, Ky., called on her many friends in the community Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Almyra Wallace, who came to look after the children of her daughter while in Richmond, Va., has returned to her home in Indianapolis, Ind.

It is rumored, if plans can be consummated, a miniature golf and other outdoor games will be started in the community.

The Wilberforce players, under the direction of Mr. M. M. Green, will appear in a Radio Play Tournament, Friday evening, April 24, at 8 o'clock and broadcast over WEAQ, Columbus, Ohio. Seven Ohio colleges will participate. This tournament, the first of its kind ever held, is being sponsored by the dramatic department of Ohio State University.

WEAQ states that each contestant will be allowed a half hour on the air in which to present a radio play with a cast composed of students from competing colleges. The plays will be judged on effectiveness of broadcast, selection of material, and presentation.

The entries and the names of their productions include:
April 17, 7:00 p. m. to 9:00 p. m.—Bowling Green State College (Play Production Class), "A Thwarted Elopement," by Florence C. Chubbuck, Mt. Union College, "The Valiant," by Hall and Middlemass. Baldwin-Wallace College,

National Farm Outlook

By ARTHUR H. JENKINS
Editor, The Farm Journal
Written for Central Press

If you would ask me whether, in my opinion, the organization of farmers is making progress, I would say it was. If you asked me how fast it is progressing, I believe I would say, about the speed of a low powered snail.

Friends of farming who believe in co-operative effort, particularly co-operative selling, have plenty to keep them discouraged. They look about the world, and see farmers everywhere, fully informed as to the principles of co-operation, and those same farmers making no moves in that direction, or actually backing down from steps they have already taken.

Yet some of the great strongholds of the co-operative system are quite untouched, and this in itself, in times like these, constitutes a victory for co-operation. Some of these strongholds are Denmark and Switzerland, most of whose farm products are sold co-operatively; California, with her seasoned citrus fruit selling system; the egg co-operatives of the west coast; a half dozen powerful milk-selling organizations in various parts of the country.

On the other hand, the great Canadian wheat pool of the three "prairie provinces" is in some of a tress, a symptom of which is the strong movement among the growers themselves to make membership compulsory. This at a moment when a compulsory fruit co-operative in British Columbia is on the point of being abandoned.

This matter of compulsion is one that is continually coming up, and is never settled. Shall co-operatives consist only of those who want to belong, or shall the government by law force everybody to come in, at 85 or 90 percent of farmers vote for it?

The most experienced co-operatives take no stock in compulsion. It is, I believe, unknown in Denmark, the world's school for co-operatives.

Yet the greatest obstacle the co-operatives face is the discontent of their own members, when they see non-members getting as much benefit in prices as the members, yet bearing none of the expense and responsibility. It is because of this feeling that the Canadian wheat pools are leaning in that direction, and this in spite of the British Columbia case I mentioned above, and the very indifferent success of compulsory pools in Australia and elsewhere.

Altogether, the situation is confused. And yet I am still of the opinion that co-operative selling is, on the whole, making snail-like progress forward.

PLAN VISIT SOON

DENVER, April 18.—Bryan Untiedt, 13, hero of the Towner bus tragedy which took the lives of five school children and the driver, will leave for Washington in about ten days, according to an announcement made by his physician today, to be the guest of President Hoover in the White House.

BOMB WRECKS HOTEL

WATERLOO, N. Y., April 18.—A powerful dynamite bomb was exploded today in the Franklin House, local hotel, and wrecked damage estimated at $5,000. No one was injured. The bomb it was believed was set off by bootleggers.

PICKERING SOLD

BOSTON, April 18.—U. H. Pickering, 29-year-old third baseman, was wearing a Boston Red Sox uniform today following his purchase from the New York Giants at a price of $10,000. Pickering is 5 feet, 10 inches tall, weighs 180 pounds, and batted for 343 in the Southern Association in 1930.

CEDAR QUEEN FOR COLLEGE

MISS SARAH RUMBAUGH

Miss Sarah Rumbaugh, near Cedarville and senior at Cedarville College, will reign as Cedar Queen at annual Cedar Day exercises on the college campus June 3. Miss Rumbaugh was recently elected queen by the student body.

Robert Collins, near Cedarville, will be Cedar Day orator following a second vote cast by the student body this week. In the first vote a tie existed between Collins, Wendell Boyer and Albert Turner.

COUPLE SENTENCED FOR ABANDONMENT

Changing their pleas from not guilty to guilty to abandoning and neglecting their infant son, Arthur Soddors and his wife, Bella, five miles east of Xenia, were each fined $25 and costs, sentenced to six months in the Dayton Workhouse and then paroled by Probate Judge S. C. Wright Friday.

After passing sentence Judge Wright agreed to the parole providing the couple furnish $500 bond and pay for clothing their three children and boarding them in foster homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Soddors were paroled in custody of Roy Soddors and Bert Sanders, both of Jamestown, a brother and half brother of Arthur Soddors.

JEWELS VALUED AT $50,000 STOLEN

BALTIMORE, April 18.—Jewelry worth $50,000, which C. Wilbur Miller, his three daughters and Miss Peggy Chew Stewart wore to the opera last night, today were in possession of two youthful bandits who held up their automobile in secluded Green Spring Valley and stripped the valuables from their fingers and necks.

Miller is president of the Davison Chemical company and was driving Miss Stewart to her valley estate when the bandits' automobile blocked their automobile on the Stewart driveway. They were forced at pistol point to turn over their jewelry.

CHINESE WOMAN IS HELD IN BOND THEFT

SAN FRANCISCO, April 18.—Arrested when she attempted to sell $12,000 worth of bonds through a local brokerage house, Helen Leon, alias Hilda Yip, attractive 31-year-old Chinese woman, was held in custody here today.

The bonds were identified as part of the $100,000 loot in the robbery of the First National Bank of Hartford, Wis., on July 22, 1930. The Chinese woman was charged with receiving stolen property and with being a fugitive from justice.

TRIAL NEARS END

DETROIT, April 18.—The eight-week-old Gerald Buckley murder trial neared its final stage today with Prosecutor Harry S. Toy finishing his closing address to the jury of seven men and five women.

VERDICT REDUCED

STUEBENVILLE, O., April 18.—Finding the original award of 50,000 for the loss of his leg to be too high, a common pleas court jury today had reduced the amount to $20,000 in the retrial of a suit by Robert Parrish, 14 against the Beaver Valley Traction Co. The earlier award was set aside. The boy was hurt when his sled struck one of the company's cars.

CONVICTS SEVEN ON INCOME TAX CHARGE

CHICAGO, April 18.—With the conviction of Sam Guzik, George E. Q. Johnson, United States district attorney, today chalked up seven scores in his income tax assault of Chicago's so-called politico-criminal alliance.

Guzik, brother of Jack, who is business manager of Al Capone's enterprises, was sentenced to Leavenworth yesterday for a year and a day and fined $2,500. Guzik, who pleaded guilty to dodging payment on a $380,000 income for three years, became the ninth defendant and the seventh gangster to feel the lash of the federal prosecutor.

Others who have been convicted, all listed as "public enemies," except Guzik, include Al Capone, Jack Guzik, Ralph Capone, brother of Al, Terry Druggan, former beer baron, Frank Nitti, Capone captain, Frankie Lake, Druggan's former partner, and Tony ("Mops") Volpe, Capone Henchman.

TRUCK DRIVER HURT WHEN TRUCK UPSETS

Robert Thomson, 37, Spring Valley, received painful injuries when a truck he was driving for the Spring Valley Medicinal Water Co., upset on the Cincinnati Pike, three miles west of Xenia, Saturday morning, while attempting to pass a machine driven by K. C. Elliott, this city.

Elliott brought Thomson to the office of Dr. F. M. Chambliss, this city where he was treated for abrasions on head and cuts on the hands. He later returned to the Spring Valley. Several jugs of the medicinal water were broken in the crash and the truck was badly damaged. Thomson was drenched with medicinal water from broken jugs in the truck.

CHURCH TO INSTALL OFFICERS SUNDAY

New officers of the Presbyterian Church will be installed at special installation and ordination services at 10:30 a. m. Sunday.

Eighteen men who compose the boards of the church will participate in the ceremony, this special service taking place on the tenth anniversary of the day the Rev. William H. Tilford began his pastorate in Xenia.

These new officers will be installed: H. H. Slagle, elder-elect, for installation; O. A. Spahr, Arthur V. Perrill and Frank McClellan, elders-elect, for ordination and installation; George Tiffany, deacon-elect, for installation; Louis F. Clark and A. D. Chamberlin, deacons-elect, for ordination and installation.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO ASSAULT CHARGE

Arraigned before Municipal Judge E. Dawson Smith Saturday morning on a charge of assault, Herbert Rowe, Fairfield, pleaded not guilty and is held in default of $1,000 bond, pending a hearing assigned for next Tuesday.

Rowe, recently apprehended at Ironton, is said to have slugged and robbed John Hoover, cook at Fairfield airport, of $92 and a wrist watch valued at $40 two weeks ago. Hoover, who filed the affidavit, said he hired the Fairfield man to drive him to Dayton. He told authorities he was beaten, robbed, thrown from Rowe's auto and left lying along the Indian Riffle Road.

VERDICT REDUCED

STUEBENVILLE, O., April 18.—Finding the original award of 50,000 for the loss of his leg to be too high, a common pleas court jury today had reduced the amount to $20,000 in the retrial of a suit by Robert Parrish, 14 against the Beaver Valley Traction Co. The earlier award was set aside. The boy was hurt when his sled struck one of the company's cars.

The Pine Tree patrol invites the remaining patrols of Bluebird Troop, No. 2, to a gypsy party at the Patterson Lodge, on the Wilberforce-Clifton Road, Tuesday evening from 5 to 7:30 o'clock. Those planning to attend are to meet at Central High School at 4:30 o'clock and are asked to wear old clothes. In case of rain the party will be at the home of Nancy Patterson, N. King St.

SENTENCE AUTOIST

Charged with operating an auto while intoxicated, Charles McCorkle, 32, colored, Springfield, was fined $100 and costs, sentenced to thirty days in jail and his driving rights were revoked for six months by Municipal Judge E. Dawson Smith Friday. He pleaded guilty. Clarence Smith, 35, colored, also of Springfield, occupant of McCorkle's car, was assessed $10 and costs for drunkenness. The Negroes were arrested by county authorities Thursday night on the Springfield Pike at the Xenia corporation line. They were said to have thrown away a half pint bottle of liquor.

EAGLES PRESIDENT ADDRESSES AERIE

E. M. Barry, Cleveland, state president of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, was guest speaker at a meeting of Xenia Aerie, No. 1689, Friday evening. A "smoker" was held in connection with the meeting.

Mr. Barry, in discussing benefits of the order said: "All activities of the Eagles spring from the belief that the only true happiness that ever comes into the life of a man is that which comes from having 5 p. m. The trail will make use of trail signs, code and interesting nature items."

YOUTH IS PAROLED

Arthur Vance, 23, who pleaded guilty recently to a burglary and larceny indictment, secretly returned against him by the grand jury in connection with a chicken stealing episode January 27, has been paroled by Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy in the custody of John Moore. The youth requested a parole and the court suspended passage of sentence. Vance, sought for participation in an unsuccessful raid made upon a poultry house on the farm of Charles Forsythe, Lower Bellbrook Pike, evaded arrest for more than two months, then surrendered to authorities.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Let every man abide in the same calling wherein he was called. Art thou called being a servant? care not for it: but if thou mayest be made free, use it rather. For he that is called in the Lord, being a servant, is the Lord's freeman; likewise also he that is called, being free, is Christ's servant.—I Corinthians, vii, 20-22.

LOVE THAT COUNTS

The observation by a nationally known pastor recently, that love alone can save marriage as the foundation of our family system is worth noting. All sorts of flaws and conventions exist to buttress the institution of matrimony against certain centrifugal forces in human nature. They are impotent unless they are vitalized by love.

The word love is one of the most abused in our language. We continually confuse it with infatuation. Although true love may begin with infatuation it never ends with it. The fundamental difference between infatuation and love is that the former is purely selfish, while the latter is self-sacrificing; and marriage calls for much self-sacrifice. The man who so "loves" a woman that he is willing to ruin her life in order to obtain or retain her in reality loves only himself. That sort of love doesn't help marriage a bit.

What the speaker exalted was the love which, starting in physical and mental attraction, endures because "the lovers love many things together." As he put it:

When a man and woman marry, each desiring to serve and care for the other, the likelihood is that they will cultivate together their love of literature, music, service to others, of developing a beautiful home life, and effect permanence in their union.

The majority of unsuccessful marriages are due to young people rushing into a state of the real nature of which they are blissfully ignorant. They are swept off their balance by physical attraction. They discover too late that "the lovely toy, so fiercely sought, hath lost its charm by being caught." The absence of common interests hastens the day of disillusionment. Conventions and laws can hold them together in unhappy wedlock—and that is all they can do. Where there is marriage without love, as Benjamin Franklin remarked, there is likely to be love without marriage. The remedy seems to lie in bringing up boys and girls with a fuller understanding of what is expected of them when they link their lives together.

COMPETENCE PAYS

Recent government reports indicated that something over 6,000,000 people have been out of work the past winter. Before people get too discouraged over such a situation they should reflect that there are pretty nearly 1,000,000 people who are natural drifters and wanderers, who work when they have no money, and loaf or wander off elsewhere as soon as they get a little ahead. Then there are probably 1,000,000 more who are laid off regularly every winter because street, construction, and farm work is tied up.

Where people have made a record for exceptional fidelity, thoroughness, and efficiency, the chances are strong that they do not remain idle long. The news is passed around that such a one is out of a job, and some employer who knows him makes a place for him somehow. He realizes that such a person will be tremendously valuable in his business.

It is of course true that many people have been idle the past winter who are good faithful workers, and whose performance has been above criticism. Many of them were thrown out of work because displaced by new labor saving machinery and improved methods. Conditions may have changed so radically in their lines that there is no chance for them in their former employment. Such people have to show enterprise in learning new kinds of work. If they do, their excellent record in the past will make it almost certain that they will do well.

But the fact remains that where business methods have not been turned upside down by some radical change, the exceptionally good worker is apt to find some employer looking for a man or woman of that kind.

The lesson of the above is that people should not at any time be too sure of their jobs. They should try to display such exceptional competence that their services will be eagerly desired if anything happens to their present employment.

COMMUNITY ACHIEVEMENT

The advance of a community depends very largely upon the level of average personal achievement, on the part of the citizens in their daily occupations.

A community supplies certain services, first to its own people, second to the people of near-by communities, and third to the country as a whole. Its retail stores assemble the products of the world and distribute them with greater or less achievement in efficiency. Its workshops and factories and farms turn out desirable products and sell them, with greater or less efficiency. We are all engaged in some useful form of service.

Do you perform that service in some efficient and achieving way, or do we perform it in a routine, unimaginative way, in a manner lacking enthusiasm, or suggesting that our hearts and brains are not wholly engaged in that effort?

On the answer to that question, the success of a community like ours largely depends. If in such a community, the employers and proprietors are slow and unprogressive accustomed to do things in a traditional way, they are not contributing to community progress.

If the employers also lack enterprise and ambition and energy, if they work simply for their immediate pay envelope, and take little interest in the development of the business they are working for, they are not contributing to community progress.

But if both elements of people take hold of their daily work heartily, earnestly, enthusiastically, as if they were determined it should succeed, that community is bound to get a reputation for advanced results. Its stores will be better than the average to trade in. Its factory and farm products will be above the average for the money. The goods and services of such a community will sell readily its prosperity will grow, and there will be better opportunities for everyone.

In these days when a person can find nothing else to do, he is likely to become a psychologist and tell the world what is the matter with the other fellow.

Mayor Cermak has made some definite promises about what he is going to do; and he also has a very definite job ahead of him.

The Atlanta Constitution suggests that the Democrats watch their step and carry a big stick. The picture this advice conjures up is the picture of a man with a log on his shoulders, trudging along with his eyes on the ground.

Mr. Hoover's remarks about the condition of the Virgin Islands were not quite what one would call diplomatic success. But maybe they were accurate just the same.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK.—Paintings and sculpture have been added to rail automobiles and other things that may be obtained on the installment plan. Heretofore installment selling in art has been limited to old and tried clients.

Buying culture on time payments is a stroke of genius that should net its innovator millions.

CULTURE FOR ALL

Why shouldn't there be a Rembrandt in every home in this land of smiling plenty?

You object that there are not enough Rembrandts to go round? Nonsense. Somebody said the other day there are about 5,000 of them already in the country. If the demand is there, apply the logic of modern manufacture and jack up the supply.

This business of curtailing the output, in order to maintain a lofty price level, should not be permitted to obtain when the man-in-the-street makes it evident that he craves culture.

And if the American Art Dealers' Association represents the attitude of The Pastor in this matter, let them sue.

PESTS

You've heard, of course, about the gushing dame who was recounting to her husband, the grandeur and the glories of a Park Ave. home where she'd been to that afternoon.

"Why," she said, "the place is simply overrun with Rodins and Murrillos."

"That's tough," said the Old Man, who was a bit of a roughneck. "Why don't she try squirting formaldehyde in the cracks?"

SUBLIME TO PENDICULOUS

I had occasion to stop in the grill of a famous mid-town hotel the other night, after the theater. It was like invading the Cave of the Winds. A corps of sad-eyed waiters were draped about the place, drooping like so many sick birds. In the southeast corner sat a bald-headed little man and a female companion. Her contempt at his steering her there was patent. At a corner table, in the northwest section a fidgety, undersized chap sat with his elbows on the table, smiling biliously at his granddaughter. If she wasn't his granddaughter she should have been.

The jazz orchestra went into action at intervals, its members looking and playing as if they wished they were dead.

Later, I dropped into a speakeasy in the neighborhood to look for a wayward relative. The place was doing a land-office business.

"This is the force of The Law That Prohibits Good Liquor. It puts decent places, like the grill room of a legitimate hotel, out of business and invests with prosperity a dank and dirty hole-in-the-wall where a premium is exacted for the doubtful privilege of inhaling bathtub gin."

BOTTLED CALORIES

Personally, I never touch The Cerveza. But I understand that here and there, throughout the country, may be found one or two who do touch it; and for their enlightenment I quote two observations. The first is by Commissioner Gerard of Paris, who says: "WINE is a food, a tonic, an antiseptic and a prophylactic against appendicitis."

The other is an opinion by the Brewers' Association of Belgium: "BEER—A litre of beer has the same nourishing power as three eggs or a pound of bread."

THE QUESTION BOX

Central Press Wash. Bureau

Answers to questions on information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, 1435 East Twelfth Street, Cleveland, O., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions, nor will the estimated value of old coins be given.

What is the address of Evangeline Adams, the astrologist? Columbia Broadcasting Co., 485 Madison Avenue, New York.

Columbus' Son

What happened to Columbus' son who accompanied him to America? Ferdinand Columbus revisited the Indies with his brother after his father's death. After some time he returned to Spain, where he took up his profession as geographer. He wrote a biography of his father, which has served as the basis upon which all subsequent biographies of Christopher Columbus have been written. Ferdinand Columbus died in 1539.

Frances Willard

Has a statue of Frances Willard been placed in the Hall of Fame? Ferdinand Willard was admitted to the Hall of Fame in New York in 1910, but as yet no statue has been erected. There is a statue of the great temperance leader in Statuary Hall of the Capitol in Washington.

Altitude in New York

What is the point of highest altitude in New York? Mount Marcy, in Essex county, is said to be the highest point above sea level in New York.

MOVING TIME IN SPAIN

SENATOR COUZENS HOLDS LOW WAGES RESPONSIBLE LARGELY FOR DEPRESSION

CHARLES F. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—Even though I have quoted it a couple of times already, may I begin by setting down a remark recently made to me by President Melvin A. Traylor of the First National Bank of Chicago, in support of his contention that a general wage cut is a necessary precedent to prosperity's revival?

"We must not confuse an arbitrary fixed wage in dollars and cents with a real wage in its purchasing power. Employers must be as quick to recognize the real wage in a rising market as labor must be to recognize the real wage in a falling market. Business cannot prosper if costs eliminate profit; and labor cannot work as fully as it should if capital is denied a proper return."

Today's market being a falling one, as to the level of commodity prices, it was the obligation of labor to recognize it, and to recognize collaterally the justice of a corresponding wage reduction that President Traylor sought especially to emphasize in his talk with me.

"And it would be," said Senator James Couzens of Michigan, "sound enough economic reasoning if it were a fact that labor were being adequately paid at the higher commodity price level. But I maintain that it was not, and that the inadequacy of wages at that time was largely responsible for the industrial slump we have been experiencing."

"Being underpaid, labor (which is to say, consumers in general) had not the buying power which it ought (and was entitled) to have had, unsold products consequently piled up and the usual evils of over-production (in other words, under-consumption) ensued."

"It is correct to say that the maintenance of the higher level of wages on into a period of lower commodity prices is equivalent to a general wage increase. And that is exactly what it required to improve conditions. So much improvement would not now be needed if wages had been advanced a great deal sooner."

"The trouble with the average industrial employer," complained the Michigan senator, "is that he wants to gobble, for himself, the whole benefit of any economy he effects in production, or any economy which is effected for him."

"The employer should have his share. The consumer should have his share. The worker should have his share, also."

"But the worker ought not to be forgotten. 'No doubt, at the beginning of the slump, when industrial leaders were called together and asked to pledge themselves to maintain wages and keep their working forces as nearly intact as possible, they complied in tolerably good faith and quite generally had the moral stamina to stick to their compact with considerable persistence.'

"Gradually, however, they have been weakening; have grown mighty tired of seeing balance sheets so regularly 'in the red.' 'Stockholders, too, have been clamoring. 'First came dismissals of workers, but without wage reductions. 'Now the bankers' advice is being sought. Bankers can see only figures, and the only figures they can see now, that offer any opportunity for subtraction, are wage figures. Hence this latest counsel: 'Cut wages.'"

"Bankers!" said the Detroitier, with a slight sneer. "Statesmen! 'Economists! 'They all have given us their ideas concerning the best plan of improving the present situation. 'But there is just one plan that not one of them has suggested. That is some plan to prevent the same thing from recurring about every so often."

"The senator did not repeat it this time, but he once told me: 'If the capitalistic system is to last, it has got to end unemployment.'" suddenly the movement for a general wage cut has developed?—ostensibly in the interests of a revival of industry.

"I doubt if it really is as sudden as it appears," replied the senator. "Probably there has been an undercurrent in the direction of a reduction for quite awhile, and it has just come to the surface."

"No doubt, at the beginning of the slump, when industrial leaders were called together and asked to pledge themselves to maintain wages and keep their working forces as nearly intact as possible, they complied in tolerably good faith and quite generally had the moral stamina to stick to their compact with considerable persistence."

Macaroni and Cheese
Mixed Vegetable Salad
Corn Bread Royal Sponge Cake or Upside Down Cake
Tea
Sponge cake is really very easy to make if you follow directions carefully and don't beat all the air out of your egg whites instead of folding them gently into the cake mixture. This recipe is a new one, however, using a different process which eliminates this difficulty.

Today's Recipes

Royal Sponge Cake.—One cup fine granulated sugar, six eggs, one cup cake flour sifted six times, one-half cup water, one-half teaspoon cream of tartar, one teaspoon vanilla, one-fourth teaspoon salt. Boil sugar and water together until it spins a thread. Pour over stiffly beaten egg whites and beat until cool. Stir in well beaten yolks and vanilla. Fold in flour sifted with cream of tartar. Bake in a greased spring pan in a moderate oven (325 degrees F.) one hour. Let cool in pan.

Dress Up Chops

Chocolate Sauce.—One cup sugar, one tablespoon flour, two tablespoons chocolate or cocoa, one cup boiling water. Mix all together and let come to a boil. Cook it a few moments and add one teaspoon butter and serve over the cake.

She's No Scarecrow In Swim Suit

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: Please advise me how to get rid of blushing. I blush at any little thing. It always gives my thoughts away. 'A certain fellow I like very much always makes me turn as red as a beet when I see him on the street or when he goes to the same parties that I do. It is very embarrassing, and whenever I see him my friends stare at me and laugh when I blush.'"

"WONDERING." Part of this habit comes from your youth and inexperience, my dear, and part from self-consciousness. Your friends don't mean to be unkind, but it really is cruel to call attention to blushing. Maybe they're a bit envious of your blush, for it is considered attractive, you know.

Liking this young man as you do, of course, and the effort to conceal your feelings, makes you more likely to color when in his company than you would otherwise be.

What can you do to prevent it? Not much, I'm afraid. You'll outgrow the tendency as you grow older, and many's the maid who wishes she could blush as she used to when she was young and innocent. Keep from thinking about the matter as much as possible, especially when you're out. As you grow older and more used to society you will discover that you blush less and less.

MAC D.: Give the girl you love a few weeks of absent treatment, Mac, and then try her out to see if she has changed her mind about going out with you. Maybe by that time you won't feel nearly as anxious to have her company. At any rate, you will have given her a chance to miss you and shown her she can't keep you dangling indefinitely, which may do her good.

"MY DEAR MISS LEE: The case of F. G. V. is parallel with my own case, but I did not have kind advice, but fought my love battle alone. I did a great deal of thinking and seemed pulled between two desires, one to end it all and the other to show him and our friends that I could live and be happy without him."

"It was hard to pull myself together, but my work and the recreation I indulged in helped me wonderfully, and I soon became my own jovial self. I now have a wonderful, loving husband who would not cause me a minute's pain. We have a lovely baby, the pride of our hearts."

"I am sure I never could have been so happy with the other young man, for he married a girl who divorced him in less than a year for mistreatment."

"F. G. V. has my sincere sympathy and I hope my little heart experience will help her in her great battle. It is hard to put on a brave front, but it can be done and I know she will be happier in the end. So here's the best of luck."

Clendening Diagnoses Spring Ill

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The average person calls it "spring fever." But among us of the learned profession of medicine it is called "vernal adrenalectomy." Because it really isn't a fever at all. It is a lack of the secretion of the adrenal gland, and in human history it goes back and really has its origin in the most primitive times.

Adrenalin, the secretion of the adrenal glands, is the chemical substance in the blood which stimulates the muscles to activity. "The Glands of Combat," the glands of emergency energy—such as the adrenal glands," as Dr. Louis Berman remarks in his charming volume of romantic poetry, "The Glands Regulating Personality." A picture of its activity in the evolutionary scheme of struggle and survival is put in danger. It must either fight or flee for its life. In either case certain conditions must be fulfilled. If the body of the animal endures it is to be saved. Of two animals, if in one the heart should beat more strongly, the blood pressure rise, the blood flow more swiftly through the muscles, he will be the victor in the fight. Adrenalin is the secretion called out by fear or rage which does all these things.

Now in the spring the adrenal glands hardly secrete any adrenalin at all. That causes the muscles to feel sluggish, and hence the spring fever.

The reason why the adrenal glands are so exhausted in the spring is a long story that goes back to the most primitive conditions of man's life on earth. It is really a heritage of those conditions, a habit formed long ago which we simply cannot get over.

You see, the winter time in prehistoric days was a period of great danger. There was not much to eat in the winter, and the cave bear and the saber-toothed tiger might turn up at any moment at the door of one of our forefathers' dwellings and there was a fight on his hands. He naturally had to activate his muscles with adrenalin in order to win this fight. Then, marauding tribes of less provident neighbors were always prowling about in the winter, trying to steal the carefully laid-up stores of provisions our ancestors had put aside during the harvest season. This meant more fighting and more adrenal activity. Then if you had to go out hunting for meat in the winter and trail an Irish Elk over the snow covered landscape, that required a good lot of adrenalin.

The consequence was that by spring the adrenal glands were just exhausted. They had worn themselves out with the fighting and the fearing of the winter. Fortunately, the spring did not make so much of a demand on them. The animals and neighbors were busy mating in the spring and did not have time for fighting and marauding. And there was not so much necessity for it, because food was more abundant—the fish were leaping in the stream, the fowl were coming back and the green things pushing out of the earth. Food was on every hand, easy to get. So the adrenal muscles just took a rest, and the muscles relaxed and there was no urge to do any exertion.

The habit got so ingrained that it has persisted down to the present day. And that is the real explanation for spring fever—a lack of adrenalin in the blood, or, as we scientists say, adrenalectomy.

Red Face Embarrasses Young Girl

By GLADYS GLAD

"Dear Miss Glad: 'I am glad to say that I've no longer any cause to view the approaching bathing season with dread—and you're the one to be thanked. For since I've been following the gaining weight course contained in your booklet on 'The New Figure,' my body has filled out considerably, and I can now wear a bathing suit without looking like a scarecrow. I have, however, one more problem. I have a number of small, hard white heads on each of my cheeks. What causes these blemishes, and what is the best method of eradication?'"

"CHLOE." Whiteheads or milia, are hard, white kernels of oil deep under the skin. They may result from sluggish tissues, improper cleansing of the skin, or internal disorders. I do not think it advisable to attempt to press out these blemishes, as the skin may be badly bruised in the process. The quickest and most effective method of eradicating milia is by expert manipulation of the electric needle.

Dear Miss Glad: My blonde hair is extremely thick, and when I shampoo it I can never tell for certain whether or not I've succeeded in rinsing all the soap from it. Is there any way of determining when the hair is free of soap? D. E. L."

You can generally be pretty certain that you have succeeded in rinsing all the soap from your tresses if, when you press the water out of your locks, your wet hair "squeaks" under your hands. If your hair doesn't "squeak" when you press the water from it, keep on rinsing it until it does. If you strain the juice of two lemons, and add it to your last rinse water, it will help to cut the soap curd and will leave the hair soft and fluffy.

Dear Miss Glad: Last week you spoke of the benefits of an almond meal and milk mask for the face. Mother says that she's heard of another almond meal face mask that possesses greater bleaching properties than the one you spoke of, but she doesn't recall what ingredients are used in it. Do you know what mask it is that she's referring to? "ROSA."

The mask to which your mother refers is probably the almond meal, egg and lemon juice mask. Mix a beaten egg with a cupful of almond meal, and add enough lemon juice to the mixture to make it a smooth paste. Then cleanse your face and neck thoroughly, smooth a bit of nourishing cream around your eyes and mouth, and apply the paste. Allow the mask to remain on the face until it is thoroughly dry, taking care that you do not crack it. If possible, lie down and relax while the mask is drying. When removing the mask, use plenty of warm water and a soft cloth, and avoid rubbing the skin roughly. If your skin is normally dry, it is advisable to apply a coating of cold cream to the face and neck after the mask has been removed. The oily skin, however, generally has no need of such lubrication after the use of this face mask.

Editor's Note: While it is impossible for Miss Glad to answer beauty questions by mail, she will be happy to send you her pamphlet on "The New Figure" and "Beauty Culture" if you will write her, care of this paper, enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin for each, to cover cost of printing and handling. For the articles on "Care of the Hands and Nails" and "Care of the Feet and Legs," 2 cents in coin for each, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope are required. Personal questions of beauty will be answered through Miss Glad's daily column.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED
by Phil

For at least the last three seasons in succession the Greene County Lumber Co. bowling team has demonstrated itself to be the outstanding team in combination in the city.

The champion team during the season just closed was composed of Hollis "Batter" Peterson, Howard "Hootie" Brickel, "Dempsey" Bales, Harry Spahr and Ben Dice. Bill Moorehead, high average bowler of the city a year ago, was also a member of the team but he took part in only fifteen match games this season.

The city champs accounted for about all the Recreation League records to boot. The titleholders had a team average of 813 per game for the season, rolled the high team total of 2,921 and also the highest team single game of 1,062.

Peterson, who was high average bowler of the league in 1928-29 and was runnerup to Moorehead in 1929-30, regained the peak during the past season with a mark of 192, which was the same average he had the previous season. "Batter" also held the league record for high single game with a score of 279. The only other league record that for high individual three-game total—went to Charlie Malavazos, of the second-place Schmidt Oil Co. team, whose record series was 682.

The Gr. Co. L. Co. just only fifteen games during the season, winning seventy and finishing seven full games in front of the Schmidt quintet.

All members of the champion team boasted high season's averages. Besides Peterson with 192, Brickel had a mark of 185, Dice was third with 184, followed by Bales with 175 and Spahr with 173. Moorehead had an average of 193 for his fifteen games. It is small wonder that as long as this apparently unbeatable combination is not broken up other teams have small chance of dethroning the annual city champs.

Only three bowlers out of the nearly fifty who bowled in the Recreation League during the current season participated in every one of the ninety games of the season's schedule. Dick Birk and Bertram, of the Xenia Shoes, and Earl Gannon, of the American Legion, were the three who did not miss a single game.

Three Gr. Co. L. Co. bowlers—Brickel, Peterson and Spahr—would have been in the same classification were it not for the fact the team failed to roll off one postponed game with the Schmidt Oil Co. As it was the champions only bowled eighty-nine games instead of ninety and Brickel, Peterson and Spahr each took part in all eighty-nine. Two bowlers only missed one match. They were "Butch" Muehlenhard of the Schmidt team and Jess Anderson of the Red Wings.

Through the courtesy of Hy and Art, a couple of big haberdashery, etcetera, men of "13" fame, printed schedules of the National and American Softball Leagues this season, are now available to fans at various places over town. The schedules also bear this legend: "Play the game hard; play the game square; be a good sport on the field or in the stands."

WILL RE-MARRY

SANTA CRUZ, Calif., April 18.—Helen Twelvrees and Frank Woody, Los Angeles real estate broker, will be remarried here next week, it was learned today after they filed notice of intention to wed. They were married recently at Reno, but the ceremony was performed ten days before the actress' divorce from Clark Twelvrees became final.

SCHEAR ENROLLS AT U. D. DAYTON, April 18.—Herbert Schear resumed his study of law at the University of Dayton today after withdrawing from Ohio State University where he was a member of the varsity football squad. He probably will become assistant line coach for the Dayton squad, it was reported.

DAYTON FAIRMONT WINS OVER SPRING VALLEY HIGH NINE

Limited to two hits, Spring Valley High's baseball team bowed to Dayton Fairmount, 5 to 1 in an abbreviated baseball game on the Valley diamond Friday afternoon. The contest, which lasted seven innings, marked the first baseball game a Fairmount team has played in seven years.

Spring Valley scored its lone run in the first inning to take a momentary lead but thereafter Coach Lane's nine was blanked by the expert pitching of Hoefling, Fairmount twirler. Geary, outfielder, tripled for the Valley boys to start the fourth inning but he was left stranded.

Reeves was on the mound for the Valley team, yielding seven hits. He fanned the batters but errors aided the Fairmount scoring.

Spring Valley's diamond aggregation will tackle Bath Twp. High at Osborn Friday afternoon next week.

GOVERNOR FAVORS FOUR MORE BILLS

COLUMBUS, O., April 18.—Governor George White's score in his contest with bills passed by the general assembly today was: signed 24, vetoed 5.

The chief executive yesterday signed his signature to four measures which won both house and senate adoption. Twenty-nine other bills have reached him and await action, and 104 others probably will be sent to him by the middle of next week.

One bill he signed authorizes holders of fraternal insurance policies to make orphan's homes their beneficiaries. The bill was introduced by Senator William A. Clark (R) of Urbana, and was intended to give members of the Jr. O. U. A. M. the right to make the Jr. O. U. A. M. Orphans' Home at Tiffin the beneficiary in their lodge insurance.

Ball Yard Banter

Brooklyn-New York National League rivalry, the keener of any in the major leagues, seems destined this season to be sharper than ever. The clubs are fairly evenly matched and both are considered in the running for the pennant.

A Robin-Giant ball game always is a good show even when one of the clubs is unmistakably the superior of the other.

Strangely enough Brooklyn, though ranking below the Giants in the final standings in each of the last two seasons, managed to win more than half of their games from their interborough rivals.

All of which seems to bear out the Flatbush boast that any Brooklyn team can defeat any New York team over a season's course.

In 1929 the Brooklyn's nosed out the Giants for the pennant. In 1924 the Giants nosed out the Robins for the flag. Their scrapping this season may be so intense that by breaking even the two clubs may cost each other the championship.

KNUTE ROCKNE'S BEST STORIES

As told by
DON MILLER
One of the famous Four Horsemen of Notre Dame
Written for Central Press

Knute Rockne had told his back so often that it was the line which broke open the path for the long runs and the scoring ones that when one of the Four Horsemen shot a good one back even Knute had to laugh.

The Notre Dame All-Stars, ex-stars, no stars or whatever you want to call them, assembled last fall at the school to train for a charity game which was to be played in New York. All showed up bright and early a week before the contest, all except Jimmy Crowley.

Only a few days remained before the game and Rock was worried. So he wired Jim: "Your appearance requested immediately. Worried about your condition."

About an hour later Rockne got his answer, also by wire. "Arriving day before game," telegraphed Crowley. "Don't worry about my condition. Have the line in shape."

Rock got such a good laugh out of that that he told the story many times afterward.

BOWLING TOURNEY OPENS NEXT WEEK

Entries for the fourth annual Miami Valley Industrial Classified bowling tournament which will be staged at the Recreation Alleys at Dayton, April 25 to May 6 inclusive, will be accepted until Tuesday, April 21, it was announced today.

Teams of bonafide employees of any factory, bank, store or other commercial institution in twenty counties of Western and Southwestern Ohio are eligible to enter the tournament. The counties included are Greene, Allen, Auglaize, Shelby, Darke, Miami, Clark, Champaign, Preble, Warren, Montgomery and Butler.

Teams entering in class A may not have an average above 875 and the low limit is $26. Teams averaging under $26 are in class B. In the doubles, class A limits are 341 to 390 with class B below 341. In the singles the dividing line is 170.

Entry fees are $1.00 per man per event, plus cost of games, 75c per event, and must accompany entry blank. All entry fees will be placed in the prize purse which is duplicated in the two classes.

Harry G. Rosenkranz, secretary, 128 N. Main St., Dayton, is receiving entries.

HOOVER PARTY OFF ON FISHING TRIP

WASHINGTON, April 18.—A motor caravan of fishermen left the White House early today intent on their first try of the season for brook trout.

President and Mrs. Hoover are opening their camp on the Rapidan River today, and by late forenoon most of the male guests expected to be in the stream with rod and reel.

Fourteen guests accompanied them and their son Allan to the Blue Ridge retreat. They included Justice and Mrs. Harland F. Stone, Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Hyde, Solicitor General and Mrs. Thacher, Assistant Secretary of the Navy. John C. Egan, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, Heath, Secretary and Mrs. Walter H. Newton, Secretary Lawrence Richey, Capt. and Mrs. Joel T. Boone, and Mark Sullivan.

The party will return Sunday night or Monday morning.

Baseball Young Man's Game? Ask Connie Mack

CONNIE MACK
In 1886

That grand old man of baseball, Connie Mack, is very much on the job at the Athletics training camp at Port Myers, Fla.

Neither eye nor arbor has been dimmed by his forty-five years in the game. The venerable manager of the World Champs recently celebrated his sixteenth birthday. Starting his baseball career as catcher with the Meriden, Conn. club back in 1884, he joined the Washington club, then Buffalo and landed with Pittsburgh in 1890. When the franchise of the Milwaukee Club of the old Western League was transferred to Philadelphia in 1901, Connie, then manager of Milwaukee, went with it. A year later he won his first American League pennant. He has been the Athletics' only manager and has won eight American League pennants and five world championships with his team, a record that will probably never be broken.

With reference to passed balls and wild pitches when a runner occupies third base, the old rule prohibiting the runner from scoring will remain in force.

The commission also announced the selection of three umpires who will officiate the opening game of the season Monday evening between the champion Lang Chevrolet Co. and the Downtown Country Club teams. E. E. Boxwell will call the balls and strikes, Herman Haller will umpire at first and Paul Turnbull at third.

Plans call for Tilden to make a lecture on tennis technique at the N. C. R. Schoolhouse Monday at 2:45 p. m. to which every Miami Valley tennis fan is invited. The lecture will be free.

Included in the troupe which will appear with Tilden are Emmett Pare, former Dayton resident, Francis Hunter, New York publisher, Karel Kozul, colorful Czechoslovakian who holds the European tennis championship and Jack Curley, promoter of the troupe.

ANTIOCH TRIUMPHS OVER EARLHAM IN TENNIS MATCHES

Antioch College's unbeaten tennis team scored another triumph—its third straight this season—this time at the expense of Earlham College at Richmond, Ind. Friday in a gruelling match which took six hours to complete. The margin of victory was 5 to 2, Antioch netters winning three out of five singles matches and both doubles matches.

The doubles matches were particularly hard fought, each being extended to three sets. Hoerr and Ayres of Antioch defeated Lindley and Outland, of Earlham, 6-1, 3-6, 9-7, while Simms and Savage, of Antioch, after dropping the first set, 5-7 rallied and won the next two by scores of 6-4, 6-3.

In the singles matches, Captain Hoerr of Antioch, stroked his way to a straight set victory over Lindley, of Earlham, 11-9, 6-4. Savage of Antioch, triumphed over Captain Outland, of Earlham, 6-2, 3-6, 6-4. Simms, of Antioch, disposed of Stanley, of Earlham, 6-3, 9-7. Ayres, of Antioch, lost to Johnson, of Earlham, 7-5, 7-5, and Adams, of Antioch, was beaten by Carter of Earlham, 6-1, 6-4.

Antioch's next match is with Capital University at Yellow Springs April 23. A return match with Earlham has been arranged for May 6 on the Antioch courts.

FIRE RAZES SHED

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed a shed used for storage purposes on the Herman Eavey farm, Wilmington Pike, Saturday morning. A $50 damage resulted. Firemen responded to the alarm although it was outside the corporation limits.

Logistical, it seems most probable that the fact that Jack and Estelle were going different paths may have precipitated the break.

Jack had reached the pinnacle of his profession years before he met Estelle. In these latter days he has been well along on the wrong side of a great career. His wife, at the same time, has been advancing in her career.

Jack is quoted as saying he wanted a home, a settled life and a family. He is further quoted as saying his wife preferred to pursue her ambition, an operatic career. She was shooting for the top that he reached more than a decade ago. Two stars, one rising and the other in decline. By natural law, such stars meet, pass—and part.

BOWLERS BANQUET HERE FRIDAY NIGHT

Covers for twenty-two persons, most of them bowlers and a few guests, were laid when members of the Business Men's Bowling League enjoyed their annual banquet in the form of a 6 o'clock dinner at the Lula Faye Dining Room, Green St., Friday evening.

Those in attendance were for the most part bowlers who compose the three teams in the league and the dinner is held annually at the close of each season. No speaking program had been arranged for the occasion.

ESTABLISH GROUND RULES FOR SOFTBALL GAMES THIS SEASON

New ground rules which will prevail this season for all softball games staged at Cox Athletic Field were decided upon at a special meeting of the Softball Commission Saturday noon. The rules are as follows:

On all overthrows of first and third bases and home plate providing the ball lands among the spectators or strikes a parked auto, baserunners will be entitled to advance one base; otherwise the runner advances at his own risk.

On any pitched ball which eludes the catcher and strikes the backstop behind home plate, the runner may advance from first base as far as third at his own risk. This is a change from the former regulation which stipulated that on a passed ball the runner is permitted to advance one base without risk of being thrown out. Hereafter the runner must "make" the base on a passed ball. The only exception to this amended rule is that on a pitched ball which is so wild it passes entirely over or through the backstop, the runner is allowed to advance one base from first to second or second to third without risk.

With reference to passed balls and wild pitches when a runner occupies third base, the old rule prohibiting the runner from scoring will remain in force.

The commission also announced the selection of three umpires who will officiate the opening game of the season Monday evening between the champion Lang Chevrolet Co. and the Downtown Country Club teams. E. E. Boxwell will call the balls and strikes, Herman Haller will umpire at first and Paul Turnbull at third.

SPYING ON SPORTS

So the old Man Mauler has lost another decision!

After six years of apparently happy married life, the romance of Jack Dempsey and Estelle Taylor, his motion picture actress wife, seems to be staggering from a knockout blow.

Jack's in Reno, Nev., where divorce is more than a casual occurrence. Estelle is in Hollywood where the famous pair once planned to make a permanent home. Somewhere between those towns the romance which interested the fight fan and thrilled the movie goer, six years ago has faded.

Big Jack, who likes kids, is a soft touch for any hard-luck yarn, a sincere friend and an excellent host and pretty Estelle, quiet, clever, serious and ambitious couldn't make a go of it, the story goes.

Too bad.

Why? Probably only Jack and Estelle know. Anyway, it's really their business and no one else's. But divorces among the celebrated is big news in these piping times and already many a sob sister has massaged her typewriter at top speed to give a waiting public the "real reason."

Logistical, it seems most probable that the fact that Jack and Estelle were going different paths may have precipitated the break.

Jack had reached the pinnacle of his profession years before he met Estelle. In these latter days he has been well along on the wrong side of a great career. His wife, at the same time, has been advancing in her career.

BILL TILDEN'S PRO TENNIS TROUPE TO PERFORM IN DAYTON

DAYTON, April 18.—The Tilden professional tennis troupe, probably the most successful group of sportsmen ever to barnstorm the nation in any sport, will make a stop-over in Dayton Monday to present its exhibition that night. The pro netters will arrive in the Gem City Sunday and will hold their show at the Fairgrounds coliseum, here, Monday night.

In every city in which this troupe has appeared, crowds numbering into the thousands have greeted it at the tennis matches and Dayton is expected to be no exception. Society has taken to the exhibition, every one of the boxes being sold out two weeks ago. Ticket sale of reserved section seats also has been going at a satisfactory clip, giving rise to the belief that the coliseum will house the largest crowd it has ever seen in the history of any sport.

Plans call for Tilden to make a lecture on tennis technique at the N. C. R. Schoolhouse Monday at 2:45 p. m. to which every Miami Valley tennis fan is invited. The lecture will be free.

Included in the troupe which will appear with Tilden are Emmett Pare, former Dayton resident, Francis Hunter, New York publisher, Karel Kozul, colorful Czechoslovakian who holds the European tennis championship and Jack Curley, promoter of the troupe.

HIGH SCHOOL YOUTH ENTERS BASEBALL HALL OF FAME

KENNETH JASPER, star junior pitcher, twirled a no-hit, no run game striking out fifteen of the eighteen batters who faced him, as Jefferson Twp. High School's baseball team blanked Jamestown High diamond representatives, 12 to 0 in a six-inning game staged on the Bowersville diamond Wednesday afternoon.

Jefferson then scored its second straight victory of the season Friday afternoon, swamping Bowersville Twp. High, 24 to 5 in a game at Beaver limited to five innings.

Jasper, who hurled part of the game against Beaver, allowing one unearned run, turned in a perfect mound exhibition against the Jamestown boys. Not an opposition player reached first off his delivery. Fanning fifteen batsmen, he retired two others on pop flies and a third on an infield roller.

Jefferson, which has designs on the county high school diamond title this spring, will face Cedarville High at Bowersville next Friday afternoon.

LOVE, PREFERRED

THE ROMANCE OF A BUSINESS GIRL

By EDNA ROBB WEBSTER

Author of "Dad's Girl", "Joretta", Etc.

READ THIS FIRST:

Mary Vaughn is private secretary to Ronald K. Foster, an investment banker of Wall Street. She supports her family of mother, twin brothers, and younger sister, Bonnie, to whom she has always given the best of everything. Bonnie dislikes work and makes it known that she does not intend to drudge for a living all her days. She is the spoiled beauty of the family. Mary is in love with a bonair Dick Baldwin, who works for another firm in "the street," but Bonnie is doing her best to attract him to herself. Martin Frazier is Foster's wealthiest client, who is very much attracted to Mary, but she treats him with polite diplomacy. He persists in his attention until Mary's employer asks her to humor him occasionally by going out with him on business principles. He is too valuable a customer to offend. So, Mary consents to dine with Frazier on Saturday night.

Mary goes shopping for a new evening gown on Saturday afternoon and Frazier sends his car for her in the evening. Bonnie resolves that Dick shall know about this. Martin Frazier puzzles Mary that evening. She had expected to meet a difficult situation, but he is only affectionately courteous to her. Next evening, Mary goes with Dick to a Greenwich Village studio party, at which she meets a number of celebrated people. Mary helps her hostess, Willa Duchon, with the supper and befriends a friend which later proves valuable to her. Dick drives home with his arm about Mary, and his first kiss convinces her that she has found the one man in the world for her. Dick tells her that as soon as he gets farther along in business, he will be ready to assume other responsibilities. Mary is satisfied with any arrangement of Dick's.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER 17

"Life is good," sang Mary's heart, on her way to the office the next morning. She felt strong and ready to battle obstinate forces. Love gave her that strength.

The office with its luxurious, rich-colored appointments seemed to greet her with the embrace and well wishes of a good friend. Its mood matched hers. As she had told Willa Duchon last evening, to be busy was to be happy! And added to that to be in love and loved!

Foster was not oblivious of her new vigor that seemed to emanate from a glowing force within her. "Have a good time this weekend," he asked her once, between letters.

"Oh, very," she replied with emphasis, and felt her face flush warmly under his glance. She might as well have told him in exact words just what had happened.

"Well, someone will get a mighty good wife, but I'll lose a good secretary. Sorry Mary Vaughn, for myself," he smiled.

"Oh, I'll not be leaving for ever so long. Mr. Foster. We have no plans at all. Dick has to get into business before we make plans for ourselves."

"Young Baldwin, eh? Well, he's a most promising fellow. I might say, one of the most promising in the business right now. He will outstep his father—but then, better than I do. You have studied the world with your eyes. I have not. Another evidence of his son's ability is displayed in picking out minutes while he gazes out of the window, seeing more distant places than were apparent before his vision.

"That is just what I should have done," he said finally, half to Mary and half to himself. Mary felt as if she were listening to a private confession. "What have I to work for, anyway? What's it all for?" Then he seemed to arouse in Cooperative Merchants, or all of it, that seems to be steadily losing."

Mary expected, and rather dreaded, that Frazier would drop in. It seemed so long since she had been with him on Saturday night. Her whole world had changed since then. She just couldn't go out with Martin again, the way things were with her and Dick. Of course, he had said they would tie themselves with no promises, but it amounted to the same thing with Mary. Her heart was Dick's, always, so what was the use of playing around with others? Why, she would rather just be alone thinking about Dick, than to be entertained anywhere by another man. Foster knew about her and Dick now. He would understand that she couldn't humor Frazier, even for business reasons.

But Frazier did not come in that day. He was a shrewd and clever sportsman. He played to win, always. A girl like Mary needed special handling, and he enjoyed the game quite as much as the winning—so long as he knew he held

SECRETARY TO WED

There was not a chance in a thousand but that his hand would win. He still puzzled Mary. But she didn't know men like Martin—who play the game with their cards under the table and a blank expression on their faces. She was frank and kindly and honest and expected other people to be the same. Of course, she had learned in the business world that few people were like that, but it never occurred to her that deceit and strategy ruled the personal relations of many people the same as their business. She had analyzed Martin as selfish, grasping and cruel; so she expected him to be like that. Perhaps she had misjudged him, after all, she regretted. It was Dick who dropped in late in the afternoon. Mary's heart leaped to her throat at sight of him. The cold wind had whipped a ruddy color into his face, his eyes sparkled with the smile on his lips. He seemed to grow more handsome every day, she thought, with pride swelling her heart. And he was hers—almost.

"Hello, Mary," he said simply,

The Theater

Lilyan Tashman the magnificent, "best dressed woman in Hollywood," wife of the popular star Edmund Lowe and one of the most competent actresses in the films in sophisticated roles, has a starring vehicle.

Miss Tashman comes to the Orpheum Theater Wednesday and Thursday in "The Matrimonial Kiosk," which is Warner Brothers' way of getting around the objection of the Ohio censorship board to the original title. And maybe you don't think it cost them something to junk their advertising and paint in the new title on their poster sheets.

The picture is for adults, since it reveals a type of spicy and pointed humor for those who like smart and sophisticated comedy. Miss Tashman is supported by Florence Eldridge, James Gleason, Beryl Mercer, Frank Fay, Marion Byron, Vivian Oakland, Arthur Edmund Carewe and James Bradbury.

Another Warner offering opens the coming week's program at the Orpheum, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. It is "Sinners Holiday," a romantic story which gives an insight into the lives of those nomads of the entertainment world who operate concessions in amusement parks and at beaches. Grant Withers is a swaggering barker and Evelyn Knapp plays the feminine lead. James Cagney, Joan Blondell, Lucille La Verne, Noel Madison, Otto Hoffman, Warren Hymer, Fumelle, B. Pratt, Ray Gallagher and Hank Mann are others in the cast. Remember Hank?

Xenians will get an opportunity to see Edward G. Robinson, the actor who has made a reputation as the most authentic gangster character in the films, and who played the title role in "Little Caesar," when "Outside the Law" comes to the Orpheum next Friday and Saturday. The film is a Universal featuring Mary Nolan. Included in the cast are Owen Moore, Edwin Sturgis, John George, Delmar Weston, DeWitt Jennings, Rockcliffe Fellows, Frank Burke and Sydney Bracey.

That rollicking red-head Clara Bow, opens the week at the Bijou Theater in what critics say is the best talkie she has ever made. The film is "Her Wedding Night," a hot and bothered farce-comedy full of action in which Clara plays opposite Ralph Forbes. The funny thing about it is that even if you don't like Clara, you'll enjoy this picture because Charlie Ruggles and Skeets Gallagher, the comedians, are hilarious hits. Geneva Mitchell, Rosita Moreno, Natalie Kingston, Wilson Bengie and Lillian Elliott, are also in the cast. The film is by Paramount.

The First National picture "Bright Lights," in which the lovely and fascinating Dorothy Mackaill is exploited, will entertain Bijou patrons Tuesday. The picture is drama, lightened by thrilling musical sequences in which Dorothy sings and dances to surprise you, Frank Fay, Noah Berry, Daphne Pollard, Tom Dugan, Inez Courteny, Frank McHugh, Edmund Breese, Eddie Nugent and Philip Strange are in the cast.

Marlene Dietrich, the German star who has out Garboed Garbo and has proved herself one of the most excitingly fascinating creatures on the screen, is starring at the Bijou Theater Thursday and Friday in "Morocco," in which Gary Cooper plays opposite her. The film has been widely acclaimed and will give Xenians their first opportunity to see this new star. Adolphe Menjou also has a strong part in the cast.

This schedule leaves Wednesday and Saturday open at the Bijou, a little matter to worry Manager Jimmy Hibbert. You don't have to worry about it because he will book new films to fill those dates early in the week.

SYMPOSIUM ON LIFE PURPOSE PLANNED BY ANTOICH PASTOR

"What is Life For?"—age-old question in the mind of man—will be the subject of a symposium at Antioch College, Yellow Springs, April 25 and 26.

Three well-known speakers will head a discussion of the meaning of life for the individual, from the point of view of Judaism, Christianity, and Humanism: James G. Heller, rabbi of the P. M. Temple of Cincinnati; the Reverend Albert B. Cohoe, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Montclair, New Jersey; and Dr. A. Eustace Haydon, professor of comparative religion at the University of Chicago.

All of Ohio's forty-two colleges and seventeen theological seminaries, together with one or two nearby institutions in other states have been invited to participate in the conference by sending representatives to attend sessions and to share in the discussions.

According to Paul Jones, college pastor at Antioch who was formerly Bishop of Utah and Episcopal Church and later secretary of the Fellowship of Reconciliation, each speaker will give a preliminary address on some aspect of the ultimate purpose of life, and each talk will be followed by separate round-table discussions for all who want to pursue the subject more thoroughly and intimately. The final session on Sunday afternoon, April 26, is planned as a "conversation" between the three speakers, to be held in the presence of the entire gathering, with President Arthur E. Morgan of Antioch College presiding.

Somewhat similar gatherings have been held at Wesleyan University, Rollins College, Northwestern University and the University of Michigan, but, according to Bishop Jones, "they have usually centered on questions of general religious differences. While this convention will bring in some of those different religious points of view and will be held in conjunction with the National Conference of Jews and Christians," he continues, "it will be unique in that the central theme will be life purpose, and the varying religious points of view will illuminate that."

"Antioch is especially interested in helping those students who are sincerely concerned not only with discovering the significance of life, but also in bringing their aspirations into harmony with the knowledge that modern science has put at their disposal. Believing that the way to truth lies in sincere, open-minded inquiry, the college is sponsoring this undertaking, which promises to be of significance not only to Antiochians, but in a much wider field," Bishop Jones concludes in a recent statement.

MINISTER IS HEARD BY HAMMA DIVINITY SCHOOL STUDENTS

The Rev. Adrian G. Lebold, pastor of the First Lutheran Church, addressed members of the senior class of Hamma Divinity School, Wittenberg College, Springfield, recently, on "Scouting as a Minister's Avocation." The Rev. Mr. Lebold is Boy Scout Commissioner of Greene County and was selected by the faculty of the theological school to appear before the Seminary boys because of his close connection with the Scout movement.

Plans are being made to have seminary students receive at least the approved course in Scout training before they enter active ministry.

The Rev. Mr. Lebold is scheduled to address the same group Tuesday on "Church Newspaper Publicity." Topics such as the minister's attitude toward the press, ways of writing of sermons, advertising events, and keeping up with the news will be discussed by the minister.

Speaking in behalf of the Ohio Synod publicity committee, of which he is chairman, the Rev. Mr. Lebold, will also acquaint the students with the machinery of the committee and the relation of individual ministers in contributing to the success of this part of the church's business.

K. G. Lind, publicity director of Wittenberg College, Springfield, addressed the students Friday on the subject, "Cultivating a Nose for News." Both of these lectures are a part of the publicity committee's plans. Similar addresses will be made by both when the four Ohio Synod conferences of the Lutheran Church will meet during May and June.

Newly appointed Belgian Ambassador to the United States, Mr. Paul May, is shown on his arrival in New York en route to Washington. Ambassador May succeeds Prince Albert de Ligne. He was an attaché at Washington thirty-five years ago.

A WEDDING GIRLS DREAM ABOUT Nick, Just Recovering From Tonsillitis, Becomes The Husband Of "Princess" Alice In Brilliant White House Ceremony And Disappear On Honeymoon

Society views the wedding, Feb. 17, 1906, as news photographers, below, snap the principals. Also below, the bridal couple are shown aboard a steamer.

(This is the final story of a series on the romance of Alice Roosevelt and Nicholas Longworth.)

By ANNE M. KEEZER
Written for Central Press
WASHINGTON, April 18. — On February 12, 1906, Alice Lee Roosevelt was 22 years old. (Nick was 36.) Her wedding was set for the 17th—only five days away. The party at the White House was not a large one. As Alice was to depart so soon she chose to have only members of her family and a few very close friends around her.

Nick was there, just recovered from a touch of tonsillitis that had caused society many shivers of fear. What if he couldn't get to his wedding? But Nick was not the man to let tonsillitis interfere with his winning for good and all the Princess Alice.

Her Last in White House
That quiet birthday party at the White House was the last that Alice Roosevelt had in her position of the daughter of the President of the United States.

Her next appearance was to be that of Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, wife of the rising young representative from Ohio.

The day prior to her marriage Alice Roosevelt began to show signs of the strain she had been under during several months of strenuous social life. She looked tired and her eyes were drawn. To let her relax and rest for a few hours, some friends took her for a drive.

A young lieutenant, one of Alice's many faithful admirers, asked to be allowed to sit beside her.

"It's your last day on earth, remember, Alice," he remarked.

Alice's eyes lit up and her old energy seemed to flow back into her.

"You mean that tomorrow I enter Paradise?" she rhapsodized.

The Fateful Day
The White House was a bower of flowers. The rooms were brilliant with the colorful attire of foreign diplomats, wearing their decorations and ribbons. The east room, where the ceremony was to take place, had an altar of flowers and palms. The crystal chandeliers sparkled over as beautiful a scene as the White House ever had witnessed.

Everyone was silent and tense when the bride entered on her father's arm. As beautiful a bride, as happy a bride as there ever was, walked slowly across the east room to the altar where the bridegroom waited. There were tears in many eyes as they watched that slender, upright figure, with the proud, little head and blushing cheeks, join her chosen husband. Her wedding gown was white satin and silver brocade, simply made in empire style. She wore her mother's wedding veil.

Her slippers were of the same brocade as that in her gown. She carried a shower of delicate white orchids.

Like a Fairy Princess
Like a real princess, or more like a princess out of a fairy tale, her gown was made of a cloth that could never be worn by anyone else. It was her very own, and after it had been woven, the loom was broken up and the pattern destroyed.

Alice and Nick stood before the altar and were pronounced man and wife. After the bridegroom had kissed his radiant bride, they turned, and the great throng that had watched them with tightened throats, surged forward to wish them every happiness in the world. The tension broken, gaiety became the moving spirit of the wedding party wherever Princess Alice was.

She never could be anything except the Princess Alice, married or no—there was pleasure and life.

Alice cut the wedding cake. It was one of the largest wedding cakes ever seen, but even at that there were hardly enough for all the guests to get even a tiny sliver to sleep on.

The guests still were there in the White House when Alice and Nick slipped away. From a side entrance they got into a car belonging to Ned McLean, a friend of Nick's of old standing, and were rushed at a full 25 miles an hour out of the city to "Friendship," the beautiful country estate of the McLeans, which had been "loaned" to the bride and the bridegroom.

Lost From Sight
For several days the couple disappeared from the public view. Then one afternoon, three persons appeared on the platform of the railroad station in Alexandria, Va., across the Potomac river from Washington. The station master was in a feared state of excitement, and kept looking down the track. The three persons were Mr. and Mrs. Longworth and Mrs. Longworth's maid.

In a few minutes a train came puffing down the line and stopped briefly. There was a private car attached to the end. Princess Alice swung aboard before it had reached a full stop, followed by Nick, puffing under a load of luggage, in turn followed by the maid, also heavily laden. They were off to Cuba.

HOOVER

President Hoover on Feb. 8th, 1931 sent to the American Red Cross a check for $7,500, one-tenth of his annual salary as President. (The Quakers believe in tithing.) The contribution is to be used in drought relief work. The American Red Cross, originally designed for succor in war, has now become also the national agency for relief of suffering in peace time. Its ever increasing strength represents the growing of the spiritual sense of responsibility of the nation toward those who meet with disaster.

Word came to Hoover in Calif. from Australia offering splendid opportunities. He took little time in making up his mind. Then again the wheel of fate took another turn. China was stirring as though to waken at last. The department of mines and railways under Chinese direction wanted a young progressive and able engineer both scientifically educated and practically experienced for expert and chief duty. This young Quaker Hoover was recommended. He had finished in Australia. There was no obligation to stay. China seemed stood on the threshold of wide railway, mining development. Under modern methods it might advance to a great industrial state, and he would be one of the pioneers.

Mrs. Hoover says that on the very night when he grasped this opportunity he sent a long cablegram to Monterey, Calif. The answer came back at a speed which broke all records for communication with our west coast. It was in the affirmative. All their friends approved the match—they seemed "made for each other." She shared Hoover's taste for the out-of-door life, his interest in science, his intellectual enthusiasm. They determined to get married at once and sail together to China. Hoover returned from Australia in 1899 to do a brief engineering job in California, but he had come home primarily to marry Lou Henry. The Chinese department of mines was not quite ready to begin operations. Monterey, Calif., had its beginning in Carmel Missions. As yet it was prevailingly Spanish-American. Hoover of course was a Quaker. All the Henrys, including Lou, were like their forebears, ardent Episcopalians. After her marriage Mrs. Hoover adopted the Quaker faith of her husband. There were, however, no established Protestant churches in town and no Protestant clergyman was available on short notice. Similar conditions had prevailed in the Spanish mission towns since the first invasion of the Anglo-Saxons, and the church had established the local custom of granting dispensations to priests for the marriage of non-Catholics. Father Ramon Masters of the mission was a pleasant acquaintance of the Henrys—he had known Lou Henry as a little girl who rode the hills on a half-wild bronco with her pigtailed streaming out behind. Called in, he took advantage of the dispensation in his legal capacity of civil magistrate and with a civil ceremony he married them at the Henry home. They took a train to San Francisco and that very day sailed for China. Some who voted for Hoover are saying they will not do so again because they were married by a Catholic priest. How ridiculous to say the very least. To be married by a Catholic priest shows how big Hoover was even in his young days. He was not going to allow anything to stand in the way when so important a step was to be taken into consideration. His love for Lou Henry was supreme.

Hoover, with all our Presidents has been criticised, some assassinated. Woodrow Wilson's life no doubt was shortened by criticism—Grover Cleveland was even criticised for going fishing one Decoration Day. He was a very large man and needed the rest, quiet and change, selfishness is at the bottom.

This brings to my mind a story a man from India told at the congress of religions held during the World's Fair in Chicago. A woman after death, found herself at the very bottom of that pit which in almost every religion in the world is reserved for the wicked. When, after many years, she felt that she could endure it no longer she sent up to the throne in heaven above one petition after another, begging that she might be released from her fearful punishment. The story goes on to relate that at last a message came down from the high throne saying that her petition would be considered if she could think of one unselfish act which she had ever done and would send up the record of that act. The woman thought and thought a very long time before she could remember one unselfish deed. But she finally recalled that one day when she had been getting some carrots ready for dinner a beggar had come by asking for food and she had given him a defective carrot. She sent up the pitiful record of her one unselfish deed with some fear and misgiving, realizing that she had given the carrot to the beggar because she did not want it herself. Nevertheless she was told that she would be given a chance and it came in the shape of a carrot tied to a string, which was lowered until it reached the bottom of the pit. She was told to take hold of it and that it might be that the one good deed would pull her up. She seized hold of the carrot the string began to wind and she began to rise. All was going well until she looked back and saw someone else clinging to her, and so all the way down until a large group of people were being pulled up with her. Much alarmed, she called out, "This is my carrot, let go at once. It is no stronger enough for so many and it will surely break if you all take hold." Of course as soon as she had uttered the words the carrot did break and they all went down together. This old tale may flatter the responsibility we all have for our acts. Some one said it's a wonder Hoover has not been blamed for the collapse of Niagara Falls.

Family cars, personal cars, cars for business, cars for sport—Chevrolet offers them all in a variety of body types, colors, equipment and upholstery meeting practically every personal preference.

Nowhere else in the low-price field can you find such a wide selection of fine coachcraft—for Chevrolet alone in its class provides the many recognized advantages of Body by Fisher. This means not only attractive styling in lines and appointments—but also the safest, most durable body construction known—wood-and-steel scientifically combined.

And as for performance—Chevrolet gives you the smooth, quiet, flexible power of an easy-running six—a six that develops fifty horsepower, yet operates with less expense for gas, oil and tires than any other car you can buy! Furthermore, the Chevrolet Six will serve you faithfully for tens of thousands of miles with a minimum of repairs—due to its thoroughly modern design, the high quality of materials used and the extreme care with which even the smallest Chevrolet part is built.

When you get ready to buy a low-priced car, you will find it to your advantage to inspect the line of new Chevrolet Sixes now on display. Among the twelve attractive models, you are certain to find a car that will not only meet your specific requirements—but will also be a source of pride as long as you continue to drive it. Any Chevrolet Six can be bought with a small down payment and easy terms on the liberal G.M.A.C. credit plan. And remember that Chevrolet's delivered prices include only reasonable charges for delivery and financing.
